Mental competency investigation ordered for woman charged

> By Steve Sharp Adams Publishing Group

JEFFERSON

A 49-year-old Fort Atkinson woman who is charged in Jefferson County Court with killing a dog that she was training has been ordered to undergo a mental competency investigation and have a subsequent competency hearing

Flemming

Tammy S. Flemming had been bound over for trial in Jefferson County on a charge of felony mistreatment of a dog causing death, but she failed to appear for a court hearing in June. This led Judge Robert Dehring to issue a bench warrant. Flemming was eventually located and made a court appearance Thursday, at which her competency evaluation was ordered.

The incident involving Flemming and Cooper, a husky-Pomeranian mix owned by a Janesville woman, occurred Sept. 11, 2020, in Fort Atkinson.

According to a criminal complaint, a Fort Atkinson police officer Adam Lawrence spoke with Cooper's owner, Lindsey Davidson of Janesville. Davidson said the 8-month-old dog was being trained at Herman's Hangout in Fort Atkinson and that she had received a call from the dog trainer there, Flemming, who told her that Cooper had died.

The dog owner said Flemming told her she had pushed Cooper too far and that she "messed up."

Janesville Fire Department Deputy Chief Jim Ponkauskas has been named chief of the fire department after serving as the department's interim chief for the last month.

The city of Janesville announced Monday that Ponkauskas is now promoted to fire chief, a move that puts the 33-year veteran firefighter and fire department administrator at the helm of a department he has served since

City Manager Mark Freitag said the hiring comes at the recommendation of the police and fire commission, which met in closed session last week to discuss a search for the fire chief.

The commission has unilateral discretion to hire and promote firefighters, police officers, and police and fire department administrative employees.

The commission's decision comes after Freitag in July recommended Ponkauskas be appointed interim chief while the commission decided how it would pursue hiring or naming a new

Gableman warns of subpoenas

Election investigator says local clerks need to prove voting was done legally

Associated Press

MADISON

The retired conservative Wisconsin Supreme Court justice leading a Republican-ordered investigation into the 2020 presidential election released a video Monday threatening to subpoena election officials who don't comply and saying the intent was not to overturn President Joe Biden's narrow victory in the battleground state.

The unusual six-minute video from Michael Gableman comes after election clerks were confused by an email his office sent last week that was flagged in multiple counties as junk, a possible security risk and not forwarded to municipal clerks as he

Gableman said Monday that if the state's 1,900-plus municipal and county election officials did not cooperate with his investigation, he would "compel" them to comply. Republican Assembly Speaker Robin Vos has said he would sign subpoenas requested by Gableman as part of the widespread fraud despite no evidence investigation. Vos hired Gableman at a cost of nearly $680,000 in taxpayer money to conduct the investigation.

Vos declined to sign subpoenas sought by Rep. Janel Bandtjen, chair of the Assembly elections committee, seeking ballots, voting machines and other data in Milwaukee and Brown counties.

Gableman said local clerks who run elections in Wisconsin will be required to prove that voting was done legally.

"The responsibility to demonstrate that our elections were conducted with fairness, inclusivity and accountability is on the government and on the private, for-profit interests that did work for the government," Gableman said. "The burden is not on the people to show in advance of an investigation that public officials and their contractors behaved dishonestly.'

Gableman, in his video where he appears to be standing in front of an image of the state Capitol, said his intent was not to challenge the results of the 2020 election that Biden won in Wisconsin by nearly 21.000 votes over Donald Trump. Some Republiand said they believe there was of that. Only two people out of about 3.3 million people who cast ballots have been charged with election fraud.

Those pushing for an audit similar to one done in Arizona's Maricopa County have pushed the false claim that the election was stolen from Trump.

Gableman addressed the call from former Milwaukee County Sheriff David Clarke, Brandtjen and others for a "forensic audit."

"It's important to note that the term 'forensic audit' is a confusing one, and it's confusing because it has no commonly accepted definition," Gableman said. "Rather, the definition of each forensic audit is created by those who control that audit. The Office of Special Counsel is conducting a full investigation in order to get to the truth of what happened in our 2020 election."

Gableman said that investigation could include a "vigorous and comprehensive audit if the facts that are discovered justify such a course of action." He said his goal was "to put everything I know and everything I learned before you, the citicans have called for a broader audit zen, so that you can make up your

Supreme Court justices need term limits

No one in American history has done more than Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell one time, the average to make the Supreme Court look political. From The South He did that Florida Sun Sentinel

by keeping the late Justice Antonin Scalia's seat as long. open for nearly a year until a Republican president could be elected and by his haste in confirming Justice Amy Coney Barrett's nomination barely a month after Ruth Bader Ginsburg died and a mere eight days before the presidential election.

Ginsburg's wellearned eulogies were tinged by complaints that, given her age and cancer history, she should have resigned while a Democratic president, Barack Obama, was still in office.

There's pressure now on Justice Stephen Breyer, at 83 the eldest of the three remaining liberals (and Democratic Post that all the major appointees), to retire before the 2022 election that might make McConnell the Senate majority leader again with two years remaining in President Joe Biden's term.

Breyer has been coy about when he might retire from the court, saying that he doesn't intend to die there. But he cannot possibly harbor any illusions about what McConnell would do in that event. He should give serious thought to insuring the court against more McConnell machinations.

Term limits, Breyer quipped recently, "would prevailed 60% of the make life easier for me."

The most compelling reform proposals call for appointing future justices to 18-year fixed terms and guaranteeing that each president could nominate at least two. Nominees would be confirmed automatically if the Senate did not vote on them within 180 days.

The problems are in the details: What to do with sitting justices? A Democratic bill filed in the House would use mandatory retirement to make room for new ones. Although sponsors hold otherwise, it would seem to demand a constitutional amendment—as would almost any effective reform.

Left to ordinary retirements or deaths, it ferences in philosophy.

could take up to 50 years to put an 18-year term limit into full effect. At justice served almost 15 years. Since 1970, a study found, they have stayed nearly twice

By providing that U.S. judges "shall hold their offices during good behavior"—in effect, life tenure—the Constitution protected them from a president's displeasure. That foresight was vindicated by Donald Trump's impotent fury at the court's refusal to help him overturn the election he lost.

Nonrenewable, fixedterm appointments would serve that purpose just as well, if long enough to attract good candidates.

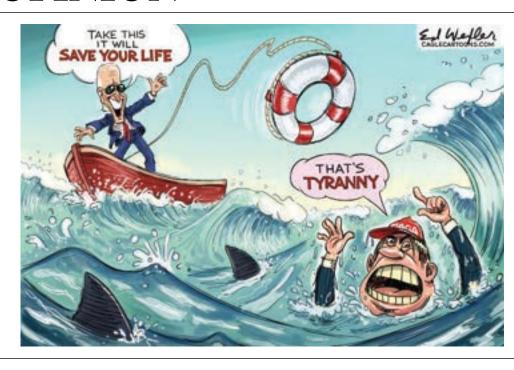

Analyzing the termlimit approach, four professors from leading law schools wrote in the April 1 Washington proposals "would have reduced the levels of extreme partisan imbalance over the last 80 years.

"It would have done this," they explained, "by preventing justices from strategically retiring at times when they could maintain their party's advantage on the court."

And "extreme partisan imbalance" would have been reduced by half, referring to situations where at least seven of the nine sitting justices had been appointed by either a Republican or Democratic president. That time over the last 80 years, they said. Bitter, closely divided confirmation battles were the exception rather than the rule before Trump outsourced his selections to the right-wing Federalist Society. They should be the exception again, regardless of who inhabits the White House.

It will unquestionably be difficult, given politics as it is rather than it ought to be, for Congress to manage any significant reform. But it must try, for the nation's sake as well as the court's. Both parties must make an honest effort to prevent even the perception of a high court driven by politics rather than honest dif-

A question of kids vs. billionaires

By Dorian Warren

In August, both houses of Congress passed a $3.5 trillion budget resolution to fund policies to help working families recover from a pandemic recession. Though the proposal is subject to further tinkering, the need for it is undeni-

The expansion of the child tax credit, part of an earlier approved spending package, is already showing huge returns for families, saving 3 million children from poverty in just its first month. New data from the Niskanen Center shows that extending this policy could generate an estimated $27.6 billion in consumer spending in just one year.

Making permanent a program that has already proven to be a success sounds like a no-brainer. But some conservatives say it's too expensive. What they mean is, if we spend more on children, there will be less left to line their wealthy friends' pockets.

Big business from pharmaceuticals to Exxon are lobbying to remove tax increases on the ultrawealthy and policy changes to lower prescription drug costs from the reconciliation package. They decry the price tag of the reconciliation package while ignoring that a tax stimulus targeted to lower income or unemployed people, like the expanded child tax credit, is two to three times more effective in increasing spending than one targeted to the upper class.

That's because families receiving the checks put a portion of that into consuming goods and services and a portion into their savings or toward their financial health. Their dollars spent at local businesses become income for the owners and workers, who now also have more disposable income to bolster the local economy.

In contrast, despite claims of "trickle-down economics," policies that offer tax credits and cuts to the rich do not similarly boost the economy. Rich people already have all the money to buy goods and services. A tax cut for them only serves to further concentrate their wealth.

But for average Americans struggling to make ends meet, a monthly, flexible-use cash advance allows them to finally afford a laptop or new clothes for school, that car repair or maybe even a din-

Change Action, the national nonprofit based in Washington, D.C., for which I serve as co-president, work every day with people in need to make sure they get the payments for which they are eligible. We hear stories of folks like Gisella, a farmworker from western Massachusetts who will use the payments to sustain her family in the off season. Or Mary Rheinhold from West Virginia, who is using her monthly checks to buy basics like toiletries and special treats like ice cream for her 7-yearold daughter.

For conservatives worried about budgetary costs, simple math tells us that continuing these payments to families is the best way to cut the child poverty rate and generate revenue to help local businesses bounce back.

The debate comes down to this: Should we lift children out of poverty and give them the chance at a bright future, or continue to bankroll billionaire space races?

Polls suggest popularity of modest reforms

By Doyle McManus

The battle over Democrats' ing up in Congress, but one piece of the outcome is already clear: The $3.5 trillion price tag is being whittled down.

That will disappoint progressives, who see the budget plan as their best chance in a generation to enact big changes in domestic policy from universal pre-K and free community college to expanded Medicare and Medicaid and subsidies for clean energy.

But as a practical political matter, it's a good thing for Democratic members of Congress who face tough races in 2022-and for their party's tenuous chances of retaining its razor-thin majorities in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Here's the Democrats' problem: Most of the individual spending proposals in the plan are broadly popular among voters, but that doesn't necessarily translate into solid support for the whole pack-

A USA Today/Suffolk University poll last month found that the spending plan was supported by a bare majority, 52%, of Americansand that was before Republicans began barraging the proposal with objections, aimed mostly at the

Sen. Joe Manchin III of West Virginia, the most conservative

Democrat in the Senate, has long said $3.5 trillion is too much—and in a 50-50 chamber, the plan can't pass without his vote.

Manchin isn't the only stumbling block. Sen. Kyrsten Sinema of Arizona has also objected to the price tag. Sen. Jon Tester of Montana says he won't support any plan that includes deficit spend-

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi of California, trying to keep progressives in her caucus lined up behind the plan, has described it in expansive terms.

'It's not incremental," she brags. "It's transformational."

Wrong message, Democratic pollster David Shor, a former campaign aide to President Barack Obama, told me.

"I would ban that word," he said. "Most people don't want bold, inspirational change. They want bite-size things."

If Pelosi and Senate Democratic leader Charles E. Schumer of New York pass a plan even half the size of the $3.5 trillion that's under debate, it would still be a titanic achievement. And less focus on that top-line number might allow Democrats to focus attention on parts of the plan that are both broadly popular and easy to understand.

He recently polled voters on a list of 193 policy priorities, including many in the budget plan. The most popular: empowering the federal government to negotiate prescription drug prices down. High on the list: adding dental benefits to Medicare (a favorite of Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders) and increasing Social Security payments.

Not as high: federal subsidies for child care.

"Giving things to old people is a real political winner; they're sympathetic and there are a lot of them," Shor noted. "The political upside of child care is more limited. Relatively few people are parents at any given time.'

Even lower in popularity: spending to combat climate

"Most people don't care about climate change very much, except for very liberal white people," Shor warned. "Almost everyone else thinks poverty is more important than climate change."

Those are the elements that Democrats will be debating, along with proposals for higher income taxes on the wealthy and higher taxes on corporations.

They already know they face an uphill battle in the 2022 congressional elections.

Their best chance probably lies in passing a much slimmer budget plan-one that focuses, as Shor advises, on measures with broad public support.

Troy Loos, 45, of Burlington left us unexpectedly and way too soon on Wednesday, September 15, 2021, due to complications from COVID. Troy was born December 5, 1975, to Larry and Leona (nee Chapman) in Quincy, IL. His early life on the rural family farm involved 4-H and FFA, the ability to fix everything, and eliminating the word "problem" from his vocabulary. Troy graduated from Payson-Seymour High School "Class of 94". In 2019, he was inducted into the Payson-Seymour Hall of Fame for basketball. After high school, Troy attended both the University of Missouri and Webster University, graduating in 1994 with degrees in Mechanical Engineering and Computer Science. Ever the athlete, Troy also played baseball and golf for Webster University. On March 16, 2002, he was united in marriage to the love of his life, Karen Klipstine, in Janesville, WI. Following their marriage, they resided in Albany for 10 years and then moved to Burlington, WI, where for the past 9 years, they have lived and raised their family. Troy was the Director of Engineering at R+D Custom Automation.

Troy was, first and foremost, a family man who treasured the time he spent with family and friends. He was caring, calm, and compassionate, and all those who met him left as a friend and as a better person. Troy was a wonderful coach to many, both on and off the court. He had a particular love for basketball and enjoyed sharing that love and passion with countless kids and adults over the years. Troy coached for St. Mary/Burlington Catholic, Junior Toppers, and Junior Lady Demons basketball teams and the Burlington Girls Softball Rec Team. He instilled in his players positive sportsmanship and brought out the best in each of them. Troy was also an avid St. Louis Cardinal fan.

Troy's strong and profound faith was reflected in his family life. His family meant the world to him. He loved children and especially had a way with babies.

Troy will be deeply missed by his loving wife Karen and devoted children, Kayla, Tenley, and Karley. He is also survived by his mother Leona; siblings Trent (Kelli) Loos and Teresa (Rob) Loos-Tedrow; mother-in-law Joan Klipstine; in-laws Bob Klipstine, Charlie (Donna) Klipstine, Lynn Klipstine, John (Becky) Klipstine, and Pat (Melissa) Klipstine; nieces and nephews Libbi (Andrew) Hazelwood, Lindsi and Landri Loos. Melina and Grayson Loos-Tedrow, William, Abigail, Tyler, Norah and Maelle Klipstine; and many other relatives. He was preceded in death by his father, Larry Loos and his father-inlaw, Richard Klipstine.

The family would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to the University of Chicago Medicine, and all the family, friends, and community for their love, care, and compassion throughout this difficult time.

As a special tribute, Troy's family is asking you to write down a memory, a special moment, or an experience that you had with Troy. They will be used to keep his spirit, his laughter, and his presence alive in our hearts. These will be collected during the visitation.

"Tammy stated that she was doing her final training for the night with Cooper at approximately 10:30 p.m.," the complaint said. "She had Cooper on a choker chain. She stated the way she trains is by a method called, 'release of pressure,' which means the dog will decide how much pressure is applied to achieve compliance."

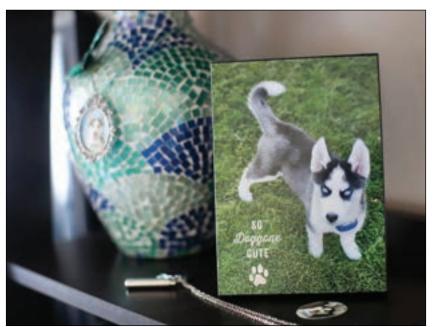

The complaint stated it is common for a dog to yelp or react when using a choker chain.

"That is when they know to relieve the pressure," the complaint stated. "Cooper had been with Tammy for four weeks and had been doing very well on the choker chain. During this time, Tammy was asking Cooper to sit, but he was in a 'power struggle' with Tammy and had begun 'fighting' her by thrashing his head back and forth. This caused Tammy to continue with pressure on the chain."

Flemming told Lawrence this was a command Cooper had successfully followed many times before.

Warhawks preparing for WIAC

After a bye weekend, No. 3 Whitewater starts league play with Stout

By David Vantress

Any football fan can recite the four seasons from memory.

The preseason, the regular season, the postseason and the offseason.

College teams are more apt to divide the regular season into two parts: Nonconference and conference.

With last Saturday's 39-7 win over 27th-ranked Berry (Georgia), the third-ranked UW-Whitewater Warhawks are done with the nonconference portion of their 2021 season. Thev finished 3-0 and have a bye this week before starting the chase for what would be their 13th WIAC title since 2005 with a home game against UW-Stout on Saturday, Oct. 2.

According to Warhawks coach Kevin Bullis, the practice schedule for the bye week will be pretty much the same as a normal week, with the first-team offense squaring off with the first-team defense.

Bullis and his staff call this concept "good on good." "That, to me, is when you can see a lot of growth," Bullis said.

Warhawks senior quarterback Max Meylor continued his hot start to 2021, completing 16 of 26 passes against Berry for 256 yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions.

Through three games Meylor is 45-of-66 for 723 yards with nine TDs.

That was just about the only thing that went wrong for Jones and the Green Bay Packers in their 35-17 victory over the Detroit Lions.

Jones caught three of Aaron Rodgers' four touchdown passes and rushed for a fourth score as the Packers had a welcome return to normal, dominating the second half in a back to catch three touchdown passes in one victory over their NFC North division rivals.

The Packers, who got thumped 38-3 by the New Orleans Saints in Week 1, looked more like the team that went 13-3 in each of coach Matt LaFleur's first two seasons. Green Bay (1-1) won its ninth consecutive home opener.

"Even more now than when I started playing, there's so many overreactions that happen on a week-to-week basis," Rodgers said. "So it's nice to come out and have a good performance and get the trolls off our back for at least a week."

Jones became the first Packers running game since Andy Uram against the Chicago Cardinals in 1942. He had 17 carries for 67 yards and six catches for 48 yards.

As for the missing necklace, he was hopeful he'd see it again.

"I think the grounds crew is about to go out there and look right now," Jones said. 'But if there was any place to lose it, that's where my dad would've wanted me to lose it, so I know he's smiling."

That may prove a bit of a disappointment for the tens of thousands who will swarm the rugged course on the edge of Lake Michigan to scream for the home team. The mere sight of responsible for the Ameri-Woods or Mickelson near a tee box is usually cause for wild celebration, especially as the day grows long and the alcohol flows.

Look a little closer, though, and it may not be such a bad thing for a U.S. team trying desperately to regain the cup on home soil. Because as talented as Woods and Mickelson are, they've been—for the most part—flops when it comes to the Ryder Cup.

cans losing nine of the last 12 Ryder Cups and four of the last five. But as the leaders of many of those teams, they didn't contribute much to them, either.

The losses over the years have been stunning enough, coming to European teams that on paper were never as talented as any American squad topped by Woods and

Mickelson. Turn to RYDER CUP on Page 3B

Men suing OSU want judge recused

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Some of the hundreds of men who sued Ohio State over its failure to stop sexual abuse by a team doctor are seeking the recusal of the federal judge overseeing the remaining unsettled cases after he disclosed this month that his wife's business has ties with the university.

The attorneys involved already knew U.S. District Court Judge Michael Watson is an adjunct professor for OSU's law school, and over the past three years they hadn't objected to his handling the cases related to decades-old misconduct by the late Dr. Richard Strauss. But information about the judge's wife's business prompted lawyers for some of the men to request a

Brewers/Lester too much for Milwaukee

33rd of the season, off Freddy Peralta (9-5).

"It's extremely important to get out to a lead especially against these arms and these teams that we're facing that are good," Arenado said. "But at the end of the day, we are just playing solid baseball regardless of whether we are scoring early or not."

Milwaukee clawed right back in the second. Avisaíl García, who returned to the starting lineup after missing four games with lower back spasms, led off with a homer off Les-

Luis Urias followed two batters later with a solo shot of his own to tie it.

Lester retired 10 consecutive batters until giving up a single to Jackie Bradley Jr. with two outs in the fifth. Lester surrendered three runs and seven hits in six innings. He struck out two and didn't walk a batter in an efficient, 77-pitch outing.

Lester has worked five innings or more in 19 of 26 starts this year, including nine of 10 since joining St. Louis at the trade deadline.

Cardinals relievers Kodi Whitley, T.J. McFarland and Luis García held the Brewers scoreless over the final three innings. García got his first save of the season.

'We hit a bunch of lazy fly balls," Brewers manager Craig Counsell said. "We didn't put enough pressure on Lester or the bullpen. It was just a quiet night."

Peralta retired 11 of 12 until allowing the first two batters to reach in the sixth. The Cardinals took a 3-2 lead on Yadier Molina's run-scoring single.

Peralta gave up seven hits and three runs in six innings. He struck out nine and walked one.

St. Louis tacked on a run in the seventh when Matt Carpenter, batting for Lester, hit a leadoff double and scored on Paul Goldschmidt's

Injury update

The Brewers reinstated SS Willy Adames (left quadriceps strain) from the 10-day injured list and optioned infielder Lopes to Triple-A Nashville

"He's been annoying for a couple days, in a nice way," manager Craig Counsell said of Adames. "He's been ready to play. You can sense that."

Outfielder Lorenzo Cain remained out of the starting lineup as he continues to deal with soreness from crashing into an outfield wall on Saturday. "It's not as bad as we thought," Counsell said.

Bradley started in place of Cain but is dealing with plantar fasciitis.

Left-handed pitcher Brent Suter had a stomach bug that recently limsacrifice fly. Molina drove in another ited his availability, Counsell said.

Ryder Cup/US better off with stars out

Equally as stunning is the record of the two best American golfers of the last quarter-century.

While Mickelson holds the Ryder Cup record for most matches played (47), he also holds the record for most matches lost (22). Mickelson's winning percentage is just 46% (with seven ties), and his devotion to the team concept has been questioned on several occasions over the Woods, meanwhile, last won a Ryder Cup match in 2010. He's played in eight of them, and the last time he was on a winning team was when he was dominating everything in golf in 1999.

In his last Ryder Cup, while reasonably healthy, Woods went 0-3-1 in 2012. He likely finished his Ryder Cup career with a 0-4 mark in France in 2018, where Europe romped to a win that was surprising if only because not much resistance was put up by the red, white and blue.

Just how bad is Woods' overall record? A journeyman named J.B. Holmes has been on more winning Ryder Cup teams than Woods, whose Ryder Cup career will be remembered more for missed opportunities than great performances.

Why couldn't Woods and Mickelson win big in the Ryder Cup when they've won big everywhere else? That's a question that vexed Ryder Cup captains over the years as they have spent long restless nights trying to figure out how to match their talents to various teammates in the team matches.

They lost with teammates both good and bad. They lost in best-ball and lost in alternate-shot. They even lost in singles, most disastrously when Mickelson was beaten in 2002 on the final day at The Belfry

RYDER CUP PREVIEW

- What: The 43rd Ryder Cup matches. ■ When: Friday through Sunday.

■ Where: Whistling Straits, Haven.
■ Schedule: On Friday and Saturday, the first of four morning foursome matches will begin at 7:05 a.m., and the first of four afternoon fourball matches will begin at 12:10 p.m. On Sunday, singles matches will tee off every 11 minutes, from 11:04 a.m. to 1:05 p.m.

■ TV: Friday—7 a.m. to 6 p.m., Golf Channel. Saturday-7 to 8 a.m., Golf Channel; 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., NBC. Sunday—11 a.m. to 5 p.m., NBC.

■ Captains: USA, Steve Stricker; Europe, Padraig Harrington

Straits emulates a cliffside links course with two miles of Lake Michigan shoreline, bluffs, sand dunes and natural fescue lining the fairways. It has hosted the PGA Championship three times, most recently in 2015. ■ Format: Four matches of fourballs (better ball) and foursomes (alternate shot) on Friday and Saturday; 12 singles matches on Sunday.

■ Points: Europe needs 14 points to retain the cup. The United States needs 14½ points to win the cup.

■ All-time series: The United States leads, 26-14-2. ■ U.S. vs. Europe series (from 1979): Europe leads, 11-8-1.

■ Last time: Europe won on home soil for the sixth consecutive time, losing only the opening session. The result was 17½-10½, and the difference was the captain's picks. Europe's four picks combined to go 9-4-1. The U.S. picks were 2-10-0 as Tiger Woods, Phil Mickelson and Bryson DeChambeau combined to go 0-9-0.

119 in the world, as the U.S. ing an unplayable lie in a lost by a point.

And those in golf remember well the disastrous pairing of the two in 2008 when they melted down almost before they reached the first tee. The idea, according to captain Hal Sutton, was to steamroll the Euros with the game's top two players, but it didn't take long for the plan to go horribly awry.

Woods and Mickelson lost their first bestball match, then more famously were beaten in alternate shot when Mickelson sliced a shot so far left by Phillip Price, then No. his eyes and ended up tak-1-up loss.

Now both are out of the lineup-Mickelson for the first time since his Ryder Cup debut a quarter-century ago-and the U.S. brings a young but extremely talented team to Whistling Straits instead. While Woods remains home in Florida, Mickelson will be an assistant captain, tooling around in a golf cart and cheering his countrymen on.

The torch has been passed, and it won't be returned. Mickelson is 50, and aside from his that Woods briefly covered improbable win in the PGA Championship earlier this year, is past his competitive prime, while Woods was injured so badly in his car crash that he may never hit a shot that counts again.

Hard to believe it was 22 years ago that Woods and Mickelson were on the winning team at Brookline in a U.S. final day comeback so stirring that both saw decades of Ryder Cup glory in their futures.

"I never knew how good it feels to win the Ryder Cup," Woods said afterward.

Incredibly, he hasn't had the feeling since.

Badgers looking to produce more turnovers

The nation's No. 2 defense to take on Coan, Notre Dame

Associated Press

MADISON

The Wisconsin football team ranks second in the nation in total defense, and the Badgers believe they still have plenty of room to improve on that side of the ball.

The next step in that progression is getting the ball back by producing forcing punts.

Wisconsin (1-1) has only one takeaway through its first two games. That came on a fourth-quarter interception by Donte Burton in a 34-7 blowout of Eastern Michigan.

"Any chance we get to create turnovers, we've got to do it," Wisconsin safety Scott Nelson said.

The 18th-ranked Badgers realize that will be difficult Saturday as they match up with former teammate Jack Coan in a highly anticipated showdown with No. 12 Notre Dame (3-0) at Chicago's Soldier Field.

Big plays a huge factor

Notre Dame has compensated for its lack of a consistent rushing attack by producing big plays. The Irish's three touchdowns in a 27-13 victory over Purdue on Saturday came on pass completions of 39 and 62 yards, plus a Kyren Williams 51-yard carry.

The Badgers allowed Jahan Dotson to score on a 49-yard catch and set up another touchdown with a 42-yard reception in a 16-10 season-opening loss to Penn State.

Wisconsin lost despite controlling possession for more than 42 minutes because Dotson had those two big catches and the Nittany Lions had a plus-3 edge in turnover margin.

They are similar (to Penn State) in that way," Wisconsin defensive coordinator Jim Leonhard said of Notre Dame. "They're been a big-play offense. That's kind of swung momentum in their last couple of games."

Rodgers has followed up each of the Packers' last five regular-season losses by throwing four touchdown passes and no interceptions in his next game.

Detroit's Jared Goff completed 13 of his first 14 passes but struggled the rest of the way as the Lions (0-2) blew a 17-14 halftime lead. Goff finished 26 of 36 for 246 yards.

He connected on touchdown passes to University of Wisconsin product Quintez Cephus and T.J. Hockenson but also threw an interception and lost a fumble.

Green Bay scored touchdowns on its first three second-half possessions to seize control.

"We just kind of kept shooting ourselves in the foot there," Goff said.

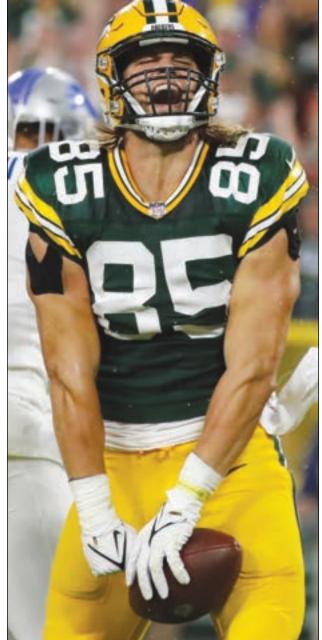

The Packers faced thirdand-12 on their opening series of the second half when Rodgers threw a 50-yard completion to Davante Adams, who ended the night with eight catches for 121 yards.

Lions rookie cornerback Ifeatu Melifonwu injured his thigh on the play, weakening a secondary that already lost cornerback Jeff Okudah to a ruptured Achilles tendon in Detroit's season-opening loss to the San Francisco 49ers.

Green Bay dominated the rest of the way.

US easing virus restrictions for foreign flights to America

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The U.S. said Monday it will ease airline restrictions this fall on travel to the country for people who have vaccination proof and a negative COVID-19 test, replacing a hodgepodge of rules that had kept out many noncitizens and irritated allies in Europe and beyond where virus cases are far lower.

The changes, to take effect in November, will allow families and others who have been separated by the travel restrictions for 18 months to plan for longawaited reunifications and allow foreigners with work permits to get back to their jobs in the U.S.

Airlines, business groups and travelers

'It's a happy day. Big Apple, here I come!" said French entrepreneur Stephane Le Breton, 45, who was finally able to book a trip to New York City that had been put on hold over the virus restrictions.

The new policy will replace a patchwork of travel bans first instituted by President Donald Trump last year and tightened by President Joe Biden that restrict travel by noncitizens who have in the prior 14 days been in the United Kingdom, European Union, China, India, Iran, Brazil or South Africa.

White House COVID-19 coordinator Jeff Zients announced the new policies, which still will require all foreign travelers flying to the U.S. to demonstrate proof of vaccination before boarding, as well as proof of a negative COVID-19 test taken within three days of flight. Biden will also tighten testing rules for unvaccinated American citizens, who will need to be tested within a day before returning to the U.S., as well as after they arrive home.

Pfizer says COVID-19 vaccine works in kids age 5 to 11

Associated Press

Pfizer said Monday its COVID-19 vaccine works for children age 5 to 11 and that it will seek U.S. authorization for this age group soon—a key step toward beginning vaccinations for more youngsters.

The vaccine made by Pfizer and its German partner BioNTech already is available for anyone 12 and older. But with kids now back in school and the extra-contagious delta variant causing a huge jump in pediatric infections, many parents are anxiously awaiting vaccinations for their younger children.

For elementary school-aged kids, Pfizer tested a much lower dose-a third of the amount that is in each shot given now. Yet after their second dose, children age 5 to 11 developed coronavirus-fighting antibody levels just as strong as teenagers and young adults getting the regular-strength shots, Dr. Bill Gruber, a Pfizer senior vice president, told The Associated Press.

The smaller dosage also proved safe, with similar or fewer temporary side effects-such as sore arms, fever or achiness-that teens experience, he said.

Americans come as the White House has moved to impose sweeping vaccination or testing requirements affecting as many as 100 million people in an effort to encourage holdouts to get shots.

Fully vaccinated passengers will not be required to quarantine, Zients said.

There will be no immediate change to U.S. land border policies, which restrict much cross-border travel with Mexico and

US officials defend expulsion of Haitians

DEL RIO, Texas—More than 6,000 Haitians and other migrants have been removed from an encampment at a Texas border town, U.S. officials said Monday as they defended a strong response that included immediately expelling migrants to their impoverished Caribbean country and using horse patrols to stop them from entering the town.

An ideal living will includes detailed instructions for patient's care

DR. KEITH ROACH

Dr. Roach is unable to answer individual letters. Readers may email questions to ToYour GoodHealth@ med.cornell.edu.

Dear Dr. Roach:

At what point in COVID-19 does a person's do-not-resuscitate order become an issue? When does treatment become "exceptional or extraordinary"? It seems organ transplants, if not coma/prolonged artificial ventilation, qualify.

-R.S.

Answer:

A do-not-resuscitate order is not one-size-fits-all. Ideally, a person considers what they want and, with expert help, writes up a document that defines circumstances.

Because it's impossible to consider every situation, it is also wise to discuss your feelings with a person who becomes a patient's health care proxy through a document called a "durable power of attorney for health care." This person can help doctors and others caring for the patient in situations not specifically addressed by the living will. A living will might also specify that a person would want everything medically appropriate done except in the case that they have been diagnosed with a serious or terminal disease.

In the case of COVID-19, many people who have contracted the infection have preexisting conditions that make them vulnerable and have a living will indicates they don't want "exceptional or extraordinary" care. There are other terms used, such as "heroic," but again, it is best to identify which specific interventions a person would or would not want.

Many people with COVID-19 infection are healthy, young people. In these cases, we usually try everything we can because some people will pull through. This includes placing a breathing tube and use of a ventilator. Very ill people are turned onto their stomachs as this helps the lungs, and survival is better.

One of the last resorts we have is extracorporeal membrane oxygenation (ECMO), which is a machine that essentially takes over the lungs' job of oxygenating blood. People placed on ECMO for severe COVID-19 infection still have a 50% risk of in-hospital death, but that's much better than odds without this treatment. Another last-ditch treatment is lung transplantation.

Someone with COVID-19 infection and a typical do-not-resuscitate order would still be treated with the best medications and support but would usually be allowed to die rather than be placed on a ventilator and would certainly not get the truly "heroic" measures.
