

Cadott Elementary Holiday Concert

Photos by Ginna Young

The kindergarten class was full of sass and pep for Cadott's Elementary holiday concert Dec. 16, with the youth getting into a performance of Nuttin' for Christmas. Some of the singers, like, left to right, Emersyn Denning, Raelyn Tannler, Shania Schwartz and Eleanor Ziche, were excited to see family members in the audience and gave the songs their all.

As part of the first-grade "angel" band, left to right, Raelyn Seely, Kadence Nichols, Toby Eslinger and Landon Raske played parts on various noisemakers, lending harmony to Angels We Have Heard on High. The classes all were assigned colors to match the grade's theme for the concert.

The fourth-grade boys section couldn't see what all the fuss was about with Christmas apparel, but the girls insisted they knew best when singing Ugly Sweater. The young performers also treated the audience to some fancy swing dancing while Swingin' in a Holiday Mood.

Kenny Lorenz (left) and Myla Braun were a couple second graders who were chosen to help out with bells on Jolly Old St. Nicholas. In order to highlight the students even more, several read short selections explaining what they performed.

It seems somewhat unlikely, but third-graders standing, left to right, Bella Hettrick, Hailey Hakes and Elliot Grimm, tried to convince their parents through the song, I Want a Hippopotomamus for Christmas, that they could fit the hippo (Blake Ramsier, kneeling) into their double-wide garage. The students were so into their roles, that it brought many laughs from the crowd.
