Just for kicks

Northwestern's Adeline Pooler helps get running back Tanner Kaufman back on the field

By Jamey Malcomb

Every time Northwestern starts an offensive series, sophomore student manager Adeline Pooler is paying close attention.

Whenever the Tigers get into the end zone, Pooler looks over to see if coach Jovin Kroll is holding up one finger or two. If Northwestern goes for the kick, Pooler has to meet senior running back Tanner Kaufman to help him change his shoe for the kick.

If it's a two-point conversion, Pooler waits for the end of the play and then meets Kaufman near midfield to change his shoes.

The reason for all this hubbub is for the first time in eight years, the Tigers don't have a soccer-style kicker — or any kicker at all. Last season, Dawson Kriske was nearly automatic on extra points and just as reliable for kick-offs, with most going through the end zone for a touchback. Isaac Nichols, Nate Pearson and Jordan Orme were also among the tradition of quality kickers at Northwestern.

"We've been blessed the last probably eight years with soccer-style kickers, who grew up playing soccer in the youth leagues and kept the ability to kick and did a great job for us," Kroll said. "Year after year, it hasn't been something we've had to really think about or worry about and then this year happened. To say it's somewhat chaotic in those moments when we actually go on defense is probably quite an understatement."

Northwestern football manager Adeline Pooler tries to juggle Tanner Kaufman's shoes during practice in Maple on Sept. 7. Kaufman, a running back and linebacker, has added kicking to his duties this season and relies heavily on Pooler to help him when he's changing shoes multiple times a game.

Kaufman had kicked some in middle school football, but not as a soccer-style kicker. When he saw the team struggling, however, he volunteered.

"We were doing kick-offs one day and I just didn't think it was great," Kaufman said. "Any way I can help, I want to help. The square-toe kind of started as a joke. Kroll said we had one and asked me to see if the shoe fit and it fit, so we just went with it from there."

The black square-toe shoe looks like something straight out of Jerry Kramer's locker in Green Bay.

"I tried to kick with the regular shoe, but I can kick it way farther with this heavy shoe on and that's why I don't play with it," Kaufman said. "It's super heavy, it's a noticeable difference."

Tigers beat Saints in HON thriller, remain undefeated

By Jon Nowacki
Duluth News Tribune

MAPLE — Northwestern football coach Jovin Kroll described the play like he was watching a movie, a sports classic such as the "Longest Yard" or "The Sandlot," where time almost stood still.

Tigers quarterback Luke Sedin was rumbling down the left sideline Friday, Sept. 9, when he was suddenly caught by St. Croix Falls defender. Sedin was holding the ball in his left hand, like he should, to his outside, but it somehow squirted back the other way, going high in the air and landing well in-bounds.

Fortunately, teammate Camden Trzynka, a 6-foot, 225-pound lineman, was trailing on the play and recovered the fumble more than 30 yards downfield. Tanner Kaufman scored from 7 yards out on the next play to give Northwestern the lead with 1:24 to play and the Tigers escaped with a 36-28 Heart O' North Conference victory.

The game, pitting two unbeaten ranked in the top 10 in Wisconsin Division 5, was nothing short of a thriller.

"I don't know if my heart rate is going to let me go to sleep until the sun comes up tomorrow morning," Kroll said. "I felt like the ball was in the air forever, and it's like you could almost see everyone in slow motion going, 'Noooooooooooooooooooo!!!!!!' That was one of those moments, where a backside tackle, running all the way downfield to block a safety, ends up making the play that in all reality saved the game. He got the ball."

And plenty of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

Sedin felt bad about the fumble, sitting on his knees and slapping the turf, but later he was slapping Trzynka on the back. That's what teammates are for.

Northwestern's Tanner Kaufman uses a square-toe shoe to kick off after a touchdown in the first quarter of the Tigers' game with St. Croix Falls in Maple on Sept. 9.

it was about speeding up the process and taking something off Kroll's plate. "Mr. Kroll is kind of a stressed-out person when it comes to games in general," Pooler said. "It makes me feel like I'm taking a little bit of stress off him by tying the shoe. If it gives Tanner a break and Mr. Kroll a break at the same time, that's like killing two birds with one stone." The Tigers need Kaufman back on the field, so getting through the shoe change as quickly as possible is key. He leads the team with three tackles for a loss. Kaufman also has a sack and a fumble return for a touchdown. "The reality is Tanner Kaufman is a returning

All-Region linebacker for us," Kroll said. "A failure to have him on the field may result in some bad things happening to our defense."

It was a tough process in the Tigers' opener against Ashland, but Pooler and Kaufman have been working out the kinks, with an assist from freshman coach Byron Nollett. "Our freshman coach said, 'Let me take it up to Superior — I know a guy,'" Kroll said. "He came back and there was the cinch you'd see on some of those open-toed sandals. You could cinch the laces up on top, so that shaved a little time off. That was a very big move." Kaufman says typically the change after kickoffs requires him to sit out two plays on defense, but as a two-way player for the Tigers, it's a welcome chance to take a quick break and get a little water before heading back out on the field. The first few times they were going through the process, Pooler said she was slower, but now things are moving better and better.

During the Tigers' 36-28 win over St. Croix Falls Friday, Pooler had to perform the shoe change five times and got her time down from 18 seconds to 10.

"The first official time I had to tie the shoe, I was nervous because I knew everybody was watching," Pooler said. "I knew if I couldn't tie the shoe super-tight, the shoe could fall off and then we could get in trouble. I guess that was the time where it was slower than expected, but I've definitely picked up the pace and I think I've gotten better at it. I mean, the shoe stayed on."

The pair are getting more efficient at the process and Kroll said he hopes the Tigers' offense gives them plenty of opportunities to practice during games. "These are the things I'd never thought about," he said. "You plan all the Xs and Os, who's playing where, but what I needed to maybe focus on a little more in the offseason was how quickly you can tie a square-toed shoe."

THRILLER

Sedin ran 12 times for 98 yards and two touchdowns, and he was 5-for-14 passing for 111 yards and another score. With a hand in three TDs, Sedin was to receive three PB&J sandwiches, per Tigers tradition, and he planned on giving them all to Trzynka. "I'm lucky he was there," Sedin said. "When I saw him fall on it, I was like, 'Thank God, he's there!'" Sedin was running an isolation play up the middle and busted left and rumbled down the sideline toward the end zone. "Then I felt the ball come loose, and was like, 'Oh, God,' but luckily he was there," Sedin said. "It ended up being a 33-yard gain. "I'm very hungry. I'm ready to go," Trzynka said, laughing. "I was just trying to get downfield as fast as I possibly could to see if there was anyone I could block to help get Luke a touchdown. I was just in the right place at the right time."

Trzynka was being too humble. The ball squirted a little bit when he pounced on it but he was clearly on top of it. "I had it all the way," he said. "It was right on my stomach and I got the wind knocked out of me when everyone jumped on top," he said. "(Teammate) Jase Nelson came up to me and said, 'You just saved the game.' I was getting downfield like I should have. I was where I was supposed to be." Kaufman finished with 70 yards rushing, Wyatt Dumonson added 58 yards rushing and scored a pair of touchdowns, Kellen Trautt chipped in 48 yards rushing and defensive lineman Ian Smith had 12 tackles to lead the defensive effort for the Tigers (4-0), ranked No. 4 in Wisconsin Division 5. Junior Aiden Meador had a monster game for St. Croix Falls, with 31 carries for 184 yards and three touchdowns for the Saints (3-1), ranked No. 7. Brock Sawicki, a 6-foot-2, 230-pound senior, meanwhile, was a monster up front. "It was a good football game," St. Croix Falls coach Grant Belisle said.

"We know what we're getting into every time we come up here — real physical." Junior Jayden Adams filled in admirably at quarterback for senior Brady Belisle, Grant's son, who was out with a knee injury, something the Tigers didn't know until right before the game. Adams made like Houdini in scoring on a two-point conversion that tied the game 28-28 with 5:29 remaining. It was a naked bootleg to the left, and Adams had no business scoring on the play. While not the fastest guy, Adams made two players miss and then refused to go down, bulldozing everybody else. "He did an outstanding job," Grant Belisle said. "For him to punch in that two-point conversion — and they had it sniffed out. He found a way, and that's all you can ask of kids. We're not always going to call great plays. I made that call and when I looked at it, I was going to call timeout, but it was too late. I didn't think he was close but it looked like they had him swept up right away, but he did it."

It was a seesaw game throughout, a dogfight with one big play after another. And it was a clean football game, with only a handful of penalties. Rain throughout the day gave way to a pleasant evening, with calm conditions and temperatures in the 50s, and the crowd sure seemed to enjoy it. It all made for a night to remember. "We'll be talking about that fumble recovery for years, assuming we're able to do what we want to do this year with our remaining regular-season schedule," Kroll said. "That may be the one play that sticks out above all others. You never know when it's going to happen, and that's what you tell the kids. You never know what the one play is that's going to make the difference in the game. And tonight, that was Camden hustling downfield that made all the difference." St. Croix Falls 0-14-6-8-28 Northwestern 6-8-8-14-36 NW — Wyatt Dumonson 35 pass from Luke Meador (pass failed) SCF — Aiden Meador 42 run (pass failed) NW — Dumonson 1 run (Sedin run) SCF — Meador 2 run (Michael Shannon pass from Jayden Adams) SCF — Jayden Adams 2 run (run failed) NW — Sedin 1 run (Tanner Kaufman run) NW — Sedin 31 run (pass failed) SCF — Meador 1 run (Adams run) SCF — Kaufman 7 run (Kaufman run)

UWS sweeps Hamline

Staff reports
SUPERIOR — A 10-kill performance from Kaylin Plautz helped Wisconsin-Superior sweep Hamline 3-0 (25-12, 25-18, 25-22) in a non-conference volleyball match on Wednesday night at Mertz Mortorelli Gymnasium.

The Yellowjackets jumped out to leads of 6-1 and 10-2 in the first set. The Pipers kept it closer in the next two, but UWS finished the second set on a 5-0 run for a 2-0 lead and won the endgame in the third after the teams were tied 20-all.

Plautz's 10 kills came against only one error for a .375 hitting percentage.

Alexie Pryd added eight kills and Maiana Stark seven. Pryd led the team in digs with 16, while Jenna Anderson added 14 and Colleen Claude 10. Claude (13 assists) and Cassy Teff (12) shared the passing duties.

UWS faces a pair of nonconference foes on Saturday in a triangular at St. Scholastica: Carleton and the host Saints.

Niya Wilson scored two of Wisconsin-Superior's four second-half goals and three for the game as the Yellowjackets opened Upper Midwest Athletic Conference play with a 5-0 rout of Northland on Wednesday night at NBC Spartan Sports Complex.

The Superior High School alumna's first came in the 37th minute and was her first of the season after scoring 20 times in 2021. It was also UWS's first goal from anyone in 383 minutes dating back to Sept. 1 in the season opener vs. Augsburg.

Wilson opened the second-half scoring with a 56th minute penalty kick, then yielded the spotlight to scorers Kamryn Hill and Allison Alessi until finishing her hat trick in the 85th minute.

"Once I got rid of (the jitters), I started playing a smoother game," Friedrich said. "That's when I found how I usually play and went with it."

Superior coach Mark Winkle said Friedrich's consistent battling and ability to get to balls was a factor in the first set as well.

"Sydney's a tough player, she moves the ball well, she's able to force players to hit forehands and backhands, and generally keeps them deep," Winkle said. "Her opponent was really tough because she was so consistent and she got to a lot of balls. That's why those first several games were so hard for Sydney. Even when Sydney hit good shots, the ball came back."

At the No. 1 doubles spot, Frankie Halverson and Lexi Goranson jumped out to a 6-3 first-set win, but let the Spartan team of Greta Clark and Mattie Schilling get back in the match in the second with a 7-5 loss. The CEC team used improved serving and strong net play to take the final set 6-0.

"Lexi and Frankie have good ground strokes from the baseline, and they keep the ball cross-court and deep," CEC coach Derek Johnson said. "It sets up our net person, it gets them in good position where they are able to get a good net shot and put it in a good spot where the opponent can't get to it."

In other matches, Superior's Lexi Johnsen rallied from a 5-0 deficit in the first set at the No. 2 spot to top Addison Ranta 7-6, 6-3. CEC's Emilie Mattinen and Paige Goranson both won their singles matches.

In doubles action, CEC's Jordyn Rakhola and Ella Chartier beat Isabel Curtis and Lauren Gunderson, and Emma Welch and Gabby Rennquist topped Kenlyn Thimm and Sierra Thralow.

Even with the loss, Winkle said his team is showing good resilience and is learning about the ups and downs of matches.

"It's nice that the girls stayed confident and kept playing hard," Winkle said. "I think they realize that matches can come and go a little bit. There's an ebb and flow to a lot of good matches and if they can stay steady during the down time, their run is coming."

toward the finish line at Pattison Park Golf Course, catching onlookers a little off-guard.

"I always have a kick, that's what I like to say," Miatke said. "There's just something in my brain that whenever I see the finish, it takes me to another level."

Miatke (pronounced MATT-key) won going away, with the senior covering the five kilometers in 16 minutes, 34.5 seconds.

Foster, a senior with Cromwell-Wright/Barnum, was second in 16:57.5 and Cloquet senior Miles Fischer third in 17:20.3. Duluth East junior Sam Blascyk (17:23.0) was fourth as the Greyhounds, competing as a team in the Dan Conway Classic for the first time since 2017, dominated in the boys team competition.

Superior sophomore Tayler McMeekin breezed to victory in the girls race in 20:16.4, with Northwestern junior Jenna Hursh a distant second in 21:03.9. Duluth East junior Rowan Bixler was third in 21:08.5 as the Greyhounds easily took the girl team title after placing five runners in the top eight.

McMeekin, who has dealt with knee issues and got a slow start to the season, lopped about 1:15 off her season best in winning her first race this fall.

Is she back?
 "I think so," McMeekin said, cracking a smile as big as her performance Thursday.

This was the first time in about 20 years the race wasn't held at its traditional home, Nemadji Golf Course.

The temperature was in the mid-80s with a strong wind out of the south as Superior senior Ethan Grams hosed down runners with cold water as they came by.

"That was nice," McMeekin said of getting water to begin the last lap and then after the race. "And it was nice that it wasn't sunny. The course was pretty flat for the most part, except for a couple bumps. It was three full loops, compared to Nemadji, which was two. That made it a little harder."

There's a psychological aspect that tells the brain three laps is more than two, even if the distance is the same. And, it gets a little boring, according to McMeekin.

The sun came out for the boys race later in the afternoon and Foster noticed. He was asked how he was feeling.

"Hot," he said.
 Foster, the Cardinals standout, has dealt with knee issues, sore glutes and was sick earlier in the season.

"It's been tough," he said.

Jed Carlson / Superior Telegram
 Northwestern's Emmett Johnson (6222) leads a group on a turn during the Dan Conway Classic at Pattison Park Golf Course on Sept. 8. Johnson finished seventh overall.

The remedy?
 "Stretch more," he said.

Foster said he's about 85% healthy, and to keep up with a burner like Miatke, that doesn't cut it.

Miatke turned his 10-yard lead into 50 yards in a hurry on that last lap.

"He took off, and I hit the wall," Foster said.

Pattison Park welcomes runners

Superior athletic director Ella Olson knew that Nemadji Golf Course wouldn't work for the Dan Conway Classic this year, so she reached out to Pattison Park Golf Course.

"They said absolutely," Olson recalled. "Come on out."

Pattison Park has new owners in Brad and Deana Moen and they saw the event as an opportunity to grow their product. The Spartans checked out the course in June with Brad Moen leading the way and found it suitable for Superior cross country's signature event.

"He's been amazing to work with," Olson said. "He has bent over backwards for whatever we've needed."

Pattison Park had to shut down for the event, whereas Nemadji, with 36 holes, could still operate, albeit with more limited capacity and logistical issues. It's a busy time of the year for Nemadji, which is also under new management, as golfers scramble to get rounds in while the weather is still optimal.

"They never said we couldn't have it there," Olson said of Nemadji. "We just couldn't do it now."

► An ambulance was called out to Pattison Park to attend to a girls runner but Olson said it turned out to be nothing serious.

YELLOWJACKET REPORT

Editor's note: This story first appeared in the Tuesday, Sept. 13, e-edition of the Telegram.

UWS falls to Edgewood

MADISON – The Wisconsin-Superior women's soccer team dropped a 4-0 decision to Edgewood Sunday, Sept. 11, at Breese Stevens Field.

Edgewood scored once in the first half and three times in the second and kept the Yellowjackets off the scoreboard, extending Wisconsin-Superior's scoreless streak to 346 minutes.

Lauren Clark opened the scoring for Edgewood in the 20th minute with an assist from Leah Doucette before the Eagles scored just 31 seconds into the second half to double their lead. Greta Blau stole a pass from a UWS player and beat goalkeeper Jenna Lang on the play.

The Eagles added goals from Marley Satranin in the 58th minute on a pass from Rylee Brotz and from Kamy Luecke in the 81st. Luecke finished off a short corner taken by Reese Meszaros for the final tally.

Edgewood (4-1-0) outshot the Yellowjackets 21-7, and 7-2 on shots on goal. The Eagles also held a 7-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Kailey Adamski (2-1-0) made saves in the 45th and 83rd minutes from Meagan Bergerson and Niya Wilson, respectively, to earn the shutout. Lang (0-2-1) stopped three shots in the loss.

Next up, UWS (0-2-2) returns to NBC Spartan Sports Complex on Wednesday, Sept. 14, to open Upper Midwest Athletic Conference play against Northland. Kick-off is set for 7 p.m.

MEN'S SOCCER

UWS, 4, Concordia-Moorhead 1

MOORHEAD — Wisconsin-Superior scored three times in the second half to break open a nonconference men's soccer match at Concordia-Moorhead on Saturday, Sept. 10, coming away 4-1 winners.

The Yellowjackets (2-1) actually surrendered the game's first goal, from Mason Weigel in the 26th minute. However, Phillip Eriksen evened it up for the visitors about six minutes later.

After the halftime break, Blake Perry put UWS ahead with his goal in the 59th minute before Eriksen made it 3-1 only 77 seconds later. Blake tacked on an insurance goal for the final margin.

UWS had a 16-12 margin in shots, 9-6 in shots on target. Goalkeeper Alex Paredes made five saves.

UWS returns to the field on Tuesday, Sept. 13, for a nonconference road game at Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

UWS finishes ends tourney with 0-2 day

The Yellowjackets had a sour finish in the Subway Stinger Classic at Mertz Mortorelli Gym on Saturday, losing 3-2 (17-25, 25-20, 25-23, 21-15, 15-7) to Macalester and 3-0 (25-20, 29-27, 25-22) to Twin Ports rival St. Scholastica to conclude the two-day tournament.

UWS rallied from two sets to one down to force a fifth against the Scots, but the comeback bid was short-circuited by falling behind 8-2 in the fifth set. The Yellowjackets never got closer than 10-7 and lost the last five points to end the match.

Cassy Teff led or co-led UWS in four categories: kills (13), blocks (two), assists (17) and digs (20). Alexie Pryd added 10 kills and 16 digs.

The rivalry matchup with the Yellowjackets was nearly level statistically, but the Saints had the better of key points in sets two and three.

Pryd and Teff led the UWS offense with 12 and 11 kills, respectively. Teff had 17 assists and Lizzy Schmidt 16, while Jenna Anderson paced the Yellowjackets with 17 digs.

UWS (2-6) hosts Hamline on Wednesday before the Saints and Yellowjackets meet again, in Duluth, on Saturday, Sept. 17.

Nelson caps Northern Nationals with dominating victory

Staff reports
SUPERIOR — Hermantown stock car driver Darrell Nelson started on the pole and took advantage of it, leading every lap of the 40-lap Late Model feature on the third and final day of the 34th annual Northern Nationals Saturday, Sept. 10, at Gondik Law Speedway.

Pat Doar of New Richmond, Wisconsin, and Kevin Eder of Ashland finished second and third, respectively.

Nelson, who once again proved he is almost impossible to beat in Superior when given the No. 1 starting spot, was denied the sweep as he finished second in his heat to Eder.

Jody Bellefeuille of Duluth earned the sweep in Modifieds while Shane Sabraski of Rice, Minnesota, earned top honors in Super Stocks.

Andrew Inman of Canyon earned the sweep in Midwest Modifieds. It was a crazy finale, with only 11 cars finishing the 20-lap feature; 12 cars didn't finish and two were disqualified.

Friday's Day 2 of the Northern Nationals was rained out. Jamey Ogston of Duluth won the Northern Renegades Traditional Sprints feature on Thursday's opening night.

Shane Howell of Buffalo, Minnesota, took top honors in Midwest Modifieds, Nick Traynor of Barron, Wisconsin, won in Street Stocks, Nate Rose of Duluth won in Pure Stocks and Justin Schelitzche of Waconia, Minn., took top honors in Hornets.

Superior also hosted the Showdown in Soup Town Wednesday, Sept. 7, a special event featuring Midwest Modifieds and Super Stocks in the same race.

Midwest Modified driver Brady Uotinen of Superior charged up from the ninth starting spot to win the 20-lap feature, with D.J. Keeler of Superior taking second and David Simpson of Thunder Bay finishing third.

Tigers hold off Warriors

Staff reports
MAPLE — The Tigers outlasted the Warriors Tuesday, Sept. 14, in a five-set marathon, 20-25, 25-23, 25-18, 20-25, 15-12.

Brynn Hessel recorded 20 kills, seven in the first set as the Tigers, who had gone two weeks since their last match, threw everything they had at elite Rice Lake hitter Eliana Sheplee.

With the fifth set tied at 12, Brinley Tonn's aggressive serving set the table for the Hessel sisters (Brynn and Shelby) to finish the match off with three straight kills.

"I am extremely proud of these girls. They have worked very hard for a long time to get to play consistently at a high level," Northwestern coach Charles Hessel said.

Shelby Hessel finished with seven kills and 13 digs, while Kayla Paulsen had seven kills and a team-best 18 digs. Tonn dished out 40 assists for Northwestern (7-3), which began Heart O'North Conference play on Thursday, Sept. 18, vs. Hayward. Results of the game were not available at the Telegram's deadline.

Superior 3, Duluth Marshall 0

Eight kills apiece from Mahlea Walters and Tarah Yliniemi helped the Spartans take a dominant victory Sept. 8, 25-8, 25-19, 25-11 over Duluth Marshall. Carlie Lohman posted 15 assists.

CROSS COUNTRY

Rice Lake Invitational

Superior's Tayler McMeekin was the top Douglas County runner at the Rice Lake Invitational Tuesday.

The sophomore finished the 5-kilometer course in 19 minutes, 57.01 seconds, good enough for fourth place, about 16 1/2 seconds behind winner Molly Northwestern's Kayla Paulsen (18) hits the ball past the Rice Lake block in the first game of the match in Maple on Tuesday.

Northwestern's Shelby Hessel (8) attacks the ball during the Tigers match with Rice Lake in Maple on Tuesday.

Heidorn of Colfax. Northwestern junior Jenna Hursh was seventh in 20:48.51.

On the boys' side, Solon Springs' Dylan Taggart returned from injury for a 10th-place finish in 17:17.80, about 44 seconds behind winner J.J. Williams of Glenwood City. Emmett Johnson and Mark Jarman of Northwestern finished 17th and 18th.

In a field of 27 boys teams, Northwestern took fifth, Solon Springs took 11th and Superior 14th. The Northwestern girls were sixth in that field, with Superior 12th.

BOYS SOCCER

Superior 2, Hermantown 0

Superior had two second-half goals to get a 2-0 win at Hermantown Monday, Sept. 12.

Darrel James and Wyatt Tischler each scored and Caden Holden stopped all shots to secure the win for the Spartans.

Superior 4, Proctor 1

Darrel James notched a hat trick for the Spartans Sept. 8, as Superior beat Proctor 4-1.

GIRLS GOLF

Hayward 185, Superior 194

Superior's Brynn Johnson shot a career-best 41, but despite being the medalist the Spartans lost their first match of the season to Hayward 184-195 Monday.

Makalea Reinke shot a 49, Sam Mosak carded a nine-hole 50, but three Hayward players shot 46 or under to take the win.

The Spartans are now tied with Hayward and Spooner at the top of the Heart O' North Conference standings with a home match Friday, Sept. 16, against Lady-smith and the conference meet looming Sept. 20 in Hayward.

CHARLES HESSEL, NORTHWESTERN COACH

relay, where Kylie Peterson, Kate Porter, Ava Denninger and Charlotte Johnson finished in four minutes, 8.17 seconds.

Proctor/Hermantown won the 200 free relay, with Emma Bobbitt, Jaana Harju, Laney Gunderson and Summer Kienzle winning in 1:57.52.

Elly Blazevic of Duluth Denfeld (335.15 points) was the best of five diving competitors.

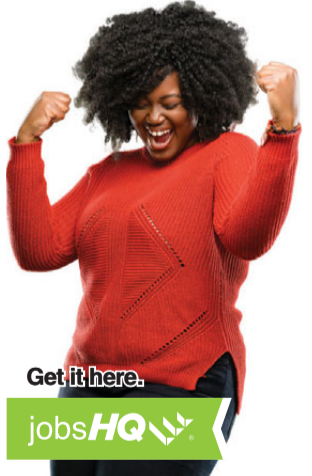

FOOTBALL

Eau Claire North 21, Superior 0

James Jarzynski scored two rushing touchdowns in the first half as the Huskies broke a 46-game conference losing streak at home against the Spartans on Friday, Sept. 9.

Hayden Smith ran for 100 yards on 20 carries for Superior and was 10-of-21 passing for 74 yards. Lucas Williams and Hunter Willis caught four passes apiece for the Spartans (0-4).
