

Weyerhaeuser man faces charges in four counties

A 35-year-old Rusk County man remains in the Chippewa County Jail on an unrelated charge pending a plea hearing Sept. 9, 2022, in connection with felony methamphetamine and criminal damage to property charges, Barron County Circuit Court records said.

Defendant Alex L. Hajdasz, formerly of N3799 Sixth St., Weyerhaeuser, appeared via video hookup in a hearing on Friday, Aug. 26, in Barron.

A complaint filed in December 2021 alleged that Hajdasz was found hiding in a crawlspace beneath an unoccupied home in the town of Doyle, east of Rice Lake.

According to court records, Hajdasz is also facing charges in three other Wisconsin counties. They include:

- Eau Claire County, felony battery, violating a domestic abuse injunction, and bail jumping.
- Rusk County, burglary and bail jumping.
- Washburn County, felony bail jumping and misdemeanor battery.

Court records show the defendant has also faced felony charges that date back to 2003 in Barron, Rusk, Washburn, Dunn, Chippewa, Eau Claire and Polk counties.

Chetek woman facing multiple drug, related charges

Felony methamphetamine-related charges have been filed in Barron and Rusk counties against a 38-year-old Chetek resident, according to court records.

Defendant Brittany A. Turgeson was charged Sept. 3, 2021, after she was allegedly found in possession of more than 22 grams of methamphetamine during the search of a rural Chetek home.

During an Aug. 19 court hearing at Barron, a trial date was set for Nov. 14.

Rusk County Circuit Court records said Turgeson is also facing four felony meth and/or marijuana related charges. Her latest appearance was Aug. 11, 2022, and the case is scheduled for a review hearing on Oct. 11.

Do the meth, get sentenced

A 33-year-old woman from Bloomington, Minn., will be sentenced Nov. 1, after she pleaded guilty to a charge of delivering meth in an arranged drug buy at Chetek last April, court records said.

Elizabeth C. Dolajec, who is now serving at the Taycheedah Correctional Institute in Fond du Lac, entered the plea Friday, Aug. 19. She and a co-defendant were arrested at a Chetek convenience store on April 13, after an informant tipped off Barron County Sheriff's investigators.

Officers seized 24 grams of meth from a truck in which Dolajec was riding, the complaint said.
