

Sad News at the Advertiser and Times Press

The Advertiser and Times Press salesman, co-worker and friend Dan Maglior passed away unexpectedly on Thursday night, Jan. 30 at his home.

In the newspaper business we use the term "Stop the Presses" and that is for late breaking news. The news of Dan's passing is beyond that. It's heart breaking news.

He was a great guy and friend to all of us at the Advertiser and Times Press and will be greatly missed.

He loved talking about his son and wife, whom he cherished and was also an avid sports fan. We're sure he watched the Super Bowl in Heaven.

Keith Skenandore said, "I was out of the office for most of last month but when I did see Dan he always asked how I was and how my family was doing. He was my water cooler guy as we talked about sports, music and family. He shared many, many stories of his son, and with each story, there was a proud daddy smile."

He had an infectious smile and used it often.

He valued each one of us, as we in turn valued him.

He would make us laugh on his Trump rants [he was not a fan] but couldn't help to voice his opinion.

He had a quick wit, sarcastic manner [sometimes] and was a people person, that made him a great salesman.

We have many good memories of him that we will keep in our hearts.

We will once again be working together when we meet in Heaven. Then, and only then, we will "Start the Presses."

Rest in Peace Dan, we love you and will miss you.
