Introducing the new reporter for the Florence Mining News

Hello, my name is Tracy Asanuma and I am proud to be writing for the Florence Mining News during these coming months. Florence County is an amazing community and while my husband has been the pastor at Homestead Baptist Church I have witnessed the beauty and uniqueness of Florence's land and people. I am very much looking forward to getting to know each of you as I write stories for the Mining News. Small rural communities often have the biggest hearts and the best stories.
