

Hometown News announces new sports reporter

Hometown News Group is pleased to announce Alyssa Brooks as their new sports reporter.

She is covering sports for the Waunakee, Sun Prairie, DeForest, Lodi and Poynette high schools.

Ever since college and after graduation, her background has heavily revolved around sports. For three summers, she was interning in the media department for the Lakeshore Chinooks and Lake Country DockHounds baseball teams.

Brooks graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater with a degree in journalism, and starting a position with Hometown News is her first job out of college.

In her free time, she likes to hike and spend time with friends. She is excited to get out in the field, meet new people and make a positive impact in the community with her storytelling. Brooks will replace Peter Lindblad, who will be the education reporter.

“We are excited to welcome Alyssa Brooks to our team at Hometown News Group. She loves sports and we know she will be a dedicated member of our team,” said Roberta Baumann, editor.

Brooks can be reached at abrooks@hngnews.com.
